Author: designal 21-12-2016, 15:24 Views: 199026.Q: How to use LocationManager to get current location from GPS I am currently developing an android application which uses Google Map API. Now I would like to find the GPS location of the user. I am using Android-GPS-API. My problem is how to tell the program, which one of the GPS satellites is closest to the user.

public class LocalisationGPS extends Activity { private static final int INTERVAL = 50000; private static final long GPS_TIMEOUT = 30000L; // Time in ms.
    private LocationManager mLocationMgr;
    private LocationListener mLocationListener;
    GoogleMap googleMap;
    Location location;
    private boolean isMyLocationDisabled = false; @Override public void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) {
        super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); setContentView(R.layout.activity_localisation_gps); // Obtain the SupportMapFragment and get action bar support // setContentView(R.layout.activity_localisation_gps); SupportMapFragment fm = (SupportMapFragment) getSupportFragmentManager().findFragmentById(R.id.map); googleMap = fm.getMap(); // Getting LocationManager object mLocationMgr = (LocationManager) getSystemService(LOCATION_SERVICE); // Creating Location Listener mLocationListener = new LocationListener() { @Override public void onLocationChanged(Location location) {
                if (location != null) { Log
```
